From Missouri to the land of Pharaohs Miss Mavis Claire has transferred her alegiance by her marriage to Daud Bey Helmy, an Egyptian nobleman of italian ancestry.

The wedding of the American girl and the Egyptian student was the culmination nance which has formed a favortte situation in so many fiction stories. Miss Claire at the time she first met her husband five months ago was a nurse in the Missouri State University hospital at partment, whither he had come in the fall with two other Egyptians. Shortly after his arrival he suffered from an affection of his eyes, which obliged him to go to the hospital. The nurse who attended him was Miss Claire. The disability was not so great that it prevented him from seeing that his nurse was fair, and under her ministering care his eyes rap-Holmy was a student in the medical deidly grow better.

But the eye affection gave way to a nore serious one. He found that his was affected very pleasantly since the advent into his life of the pretty American nurse. Bey Helmy and his friends visited the Fair before its close and while here they decided to attend the Mical department of Washington University at the beginning of this year's term.

They removed here January 4 and matriculated at the medical school. But Helmy's heart was still in Columbia, and he carried on a most extensive correspondence with Miss Claire.

Two weeks ago Miss Claire resigned her a letter of congratulation.

This is the whole story of stomach troubles in a nutshell. The stomach thust have rest and assistance, and Stuart's Pysicpels Tablets give it both by supplying those natural digestives which every wask stomach lacks, owing to the failure of the peptic glands in the stomach to secrete sufficient acid and pepin to thoroughly digest and assimilate the feed caten.

ANONYMOUS LETTER RAILROADS GRANT REBATES THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TO PACKERS IN BEEF TRUST THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY

Commissioner Garfield's Report on His Investigations Discloses How Some Railways Discriminate Against Independent Houses in Favor of Members of the Combination - No Evidence of Criminality, This Feature of Case Being Referred to Federal Grand Jury in Chicago.

NO COMPETITION AMONG PACKERS IN THE COMBINATION.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Washington, Peb. 3.-James A. Garfield, ead of the Bureau of Corporations, has completed his report of the investigation of the Beef Trust, which he has been conducting for more than a year. The report will probably be made public on Thursday. It has been submitted to the President and will be sent to Congress and given to the press as soon as it has been read by the President, Attorney General Moody and Mr. Metcalf, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor.

Those who have glanced at the report say that it will not be of such a sensational character as the public has been led to expect by reason of the effort now being made at Chicago to indict the members of the combination who are suspected of having violated the antitrust law and the injunction of the United States Circuit Court.

The report will clearly show that the packers in the combination have enjoyed rebates and other secret advantages over their smaller rivals from the railroads, and this is one of the most interesting chapters of the document. Specific in-stances of the giving of these rebates are It is a matter of gratification to the ad-ministration that the Santa Fe Railroad.

of which Mr. Paul Morton, the Secretary of the Navy, was so long vice president and traffic chief, is not included in the list of railroads giving relates to the packers' combination.

and trame chief, is not included in the list of railroads giving rebutes to the packers' combination.

The report also shows that there has not been real competition between the members of the combination, but is said to make a more favorable showing as to obedience to the law than was expected. There is a great array of statistics showing the production of cattle, the price on the ranges and at the live-stock markets, as well as the price of dressed meats at wholesale and retail.

These figures have been obtained from the packers themselves and have been revised by reports of the packers since they have been collected and arranged for publication. Commissioner Garfield is now in Chicago, where he went a few days ago to see some of the largest packers to verify some of the figures.

The statement is made that the report is more in the nature of an exposure, and that only such matters are given to the public as the President ordered. Under the law, Commissioner Garfield makes investigations and submits the result to the President to be used in making recommendations to Congress, and the President can make it public or not as he elects.

There is no evidence of criminal misloings in the Garfield report. Such evidence as Mr. Garfield collected bearing on the breaking of the law and the disobedience as Mr. Gardeld report. Such evidence as Mr. Gardeld collected bearing on the breaking of the law and the disobedience of the infunction is understood to have been turned over by him to the Department of Justice.

SENATE AGREES TO OSAGE LEASE

Bard Amendment as to Sectarian School Support Is Practically Nullified - Life of the Dawes Commission Is Lengthened by an Amendment.

Wyatt Building, 14th and F Streets Washington, Feb. 3.-After encountering only the mildest opposition, the amendment in the Indian appropriation bill, providing for the renewal of the Foster lease on 690,000 acres of oll and gas lands in the Osage Reservation, Oklahome, was to-day passed by the Senate. Senator Depew opened the discussion stating that there was a practicable obligation to extend the lease on the original terms. This, he contended, was the understanding of the oil men who took subleases on the reservation and spent their toney in developing the field, many of whom have not realized anything on their investments, and will not if the lease should fail of renewal. He know one per son, he declared, who had put all he had return.

Senator Lodge made a point of order against the amendment on behalf of Senator Hale, who made a point of order

The Senate also agreed to two other important amendments. The one offered by Senator McCumber of South Dakota practically nullifies the Bard amendment concerning the use of Indian moneys for the subject of sectarian or denominational schools.

The McCumber amendment provides that any indian who may desire to educate his indian who may desire to educate his children in other than Government schools na), for this purpose, give a written or-ier on his share of tribal or trust funds der on his share of tribal or trust funds.

Many Senators vigorously opposed this amendment. It was debated and voted upon for more than two hours, but finally passed by a large majority.

The other amendment has the effect of materially modifying the provision of the bill which directs the Secretary of the Interior to investigate leases of allotted terior to investigate leases of allotted land in Indian Territory. As reported to the Senate, the bill provided that he investigate any lease which he "has reason to believe has been obtained by fraud, or for a grossly inadequate consideration." Senator McLaurin of Mississippi offered an amendment to strike out the last clause, which was agreed to. The Mississippian contended that the fact that a lease was secured at a low figure does sessiplian contended that the fact that a lease was secured at a low figure does not constitute fraud, and that such a lease might in every sense be legal. The amendment is a victory for those who seek greater freedom in the matter of re-strictions on allotted lands.

How long the investigation will last can not now be told. I believe, however, that a number of witnesses will be called. Whether all will be members of the Gen-

Senator Hale, who made a point of order against it last night. Later, Senator Hale entered the chamber, and withdrew the point of order and the amendment was agreed to. This probably means that the lease will be renewed, as it is believed the House will agree to it, though some trouble is expected.

The Senate also agreed to two other important amendments. The one offered by Senator McCumber of South Dakota practically nullifies the Bard amendment concerning the use of Indian moneys for the Grand Jury and tell his story. PARSIFAL WAITING LINE BLOCKS LONG Prospective Ticket Buvers File Before Box Office in Continuous String From 7 O'Clock in Morning Till 6 in Evening.

The Olympic Theater was the center of attraction yesterday from 7 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock in the evening. Everybody was making a grand rush to scoure seats for "Parsifal." The sales were the largest of any one day in the history of the theater. During the first five hours, from 9 until 2 o'clock, the sales amounted to $10,000.

The doors were open at 9 o'clock, and the man who bought the first ticket said: "I have been standing in line for two hours. I was determined to have the choics seats of the house." He bought a cat in the front row in the center of the balcony.

The line at 9 o'clock reached down Broadway to Walnut street, to Sixth and down Sixth to Elm street. R. W. Richer and W. D. Cave were busy selling tickets. while a Sergeant and four policemen kept the people in line. There were many arguments by people trying to beat the line by crowing in out of place, but the officers sent the "scrougers" to the foot of the line.

There were several ways planned to beat the line, but they were, as a rule, unsuc cessful. One of them was to sand a tele gram to "Bud" Mantz, asking for tickets. The envelopes were marked "Important," The envelopes were monthly wiggle through and the messengers would wiggle through the crowd, endeavoring to deliver the message, and they were to "wait for an answer.

THE TELEGRAM TRICK WORKED.

Mr. Mantz received more telegrams yesterday than he ever received before, but the telegrams sent to him were of no avail, because he was selling tickets for "The Other Girl," "I am so hungry. I shall faint if I don't soon get my tickets, so I can go and get something to eat," said the thin man.

"The idea," exclaimed the fat woman to her rear neighbor, "of anybody wanting anything to eat at such a time as this; I don't care if I don't get a bite to-day if I just get my tickets." fust get my tickets.

don't care if I don't get a bite to-day if I just get my tickets.

There were several people who brought their lunch with them, anticipating a long wait. They were envied by their fellow-creatures.

There are two kinds of "Parsifal looks," the before and after. Neither of them is angelic or saintly. Nine persons out of every ten met on Broadway had either the "before" or "after" Parsifal look. Those afflicted with the former look had an exaggerated "bargain-sale run" and an "I-must-get-it-or-die" countenance, their eyes starting out of their heads, their cheeks flushed and their nerves at the wireless telegraphy pitch. Those afflicted with the "after" Parsifal look appeared as if they had passed through a small-sized cyclone, yet supremely happy.

A Theory. "Why do so many planists wear long

"I suppose," answered Miss Cayenne, "that some of them let their hair hang over their ears so as not to be so much disturbed by the surrounding conversa-tion,"—Washington Star.

FOR SCALDING WIFE

Judge Moore Regrets That Law Would Not Permit Severer Sentence for Peter McKay.

"I sentence you to the Workhouse for one year, and am only sorry that the law does not permit me to make it two." said Judge Moore yesterday after hearing the case of Peter McKay, who was charged with scalding his wife. Amelia, with hot coffee at their home. No. 2135 Carr street. Mrs. McKay appeared in court with her arm and head bandaged. The testimony showed that her husband was angered be-cause she refused to go to a saloun to get whisky for him, and that he took the cof-fee pot from the stove and poured the hot beverage on her head and arms.

McKay admitted the charge, and in re-ply to Judge Moore's questions said he did not know how often he had mistreated his
